County Executive Ryan McMahon Announces Five More Town Halls

Tremendous feedback from all corners of the County

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – County Executive J. Ryan McMahon II announced today the dates and locations of five more town halls to be held throughout Onondaga County. These town halls are part of a series of public forums the County Executive will be having over the coming months to share his vision and hear from members of the community.

County Executive McMahon said, “The response from the community at our town halls has been tremendous. There is real momentum in our County. McMahon continued, “We have important issues to address like poverty, our infrastructure and economic development. I’m looking forward to hearing directly from people about additional ways we can work together and move our County forward.”
